

Legg Mason Capital Management

Visionary value investing

Founded in 1982, Legg Mason Capital Management (LMCM) has become one of the nation's premier equity managers. Their valuation-driven investment process seeks to identify deeply undervalued companies with the potential to outperform over a long-term horizon. While markets constantly evolve, the firm believes their analytical skill, scholarly research and contrarian mindset provide them with a unique and powerful investment perspective. Based in Baltimore, Maryland, the firm has $17.9 billion in assets under management.¹

Firm highlights

- The firm's exhaustive research process focuses on challenging market assumptions with a distinctive blend of classic valuation analysis and traditional and non-traditional learning.
- LMCM seeks to identify a company's "intrinsic value," or the present value of the free cash that its underlying business is likely to generate over a given time period.
- Backed by the power of their long-term investment convictions, their portfolios tend to be concentrated, with low turnover.²
- The LMCM investment team, led by legendary portfolio manager Bill Miller, has distinguished itself in thought leadership, authoring numerous books, newsletters, white papers and market commentaries.
